Don Quichotte.

Numéro d'inventaire : 1979.31420
Type de document : image imprimée
Éditeur : Pellerin (Pellerin, Epinal Epinal)
Imprimeur : Pellerin
Période de création : 4e quart 19e siècle
Date de création : 1890 (vers)
Inscriptions :
• numéro : 36
Description : Planche d'images (72x60) avec légendes.
Mesures : hauteur : 383 mm ; largeur : 275 mm
Notes : Mention : "Printed expressly for the Humoristic Publishing C°, Kansas City, Mo."
Mots-clés : Images d'Epinal
Littérature de jeunesse (y compris les contes et légendes), publicité relative à la littérature de jeunesse
Filière : aucune
Niveau : aucun
Autres descriptions : Langue : Anglais
Nombre de pages : 1
ill. en coul.

DON QUICHOTTE
36
Don Quichotte reads of ancient chivalry.
He sets out on the back of Rossinante and encased in a suit of armour in search of adventures.
Don Quichotte asks an innkeeper to confer upon him the title of knighthood.
He is overcome by a muleteer whom he has attacked.
The physician having been sent for by the barber of the village burns all the books on chivalry, hoping thus to cure him of his madness.
Don Quichotte makes an assault upon some windmills thinking that they were enchanted giants.
He is wounded during the fight and brought back by Sancho Pansa.
The faithful Sancho is tossed in a blanket.
Don Quichotte to the great admiration of his equerry places on his head a barber's copper basin thinking that it is the golden helmet of Membrin.
He performs cappers before Sancho and tells him to go and describe his sorrowful condition to Dulcinee.
Happiness of Sancho at Gamache's wedding.
Don Quichotte makes an assault upon some puppets, thinking that they are soldiers.
The waiting maids of the Duchess assist Don Quichotte in arranging his toilet.
He returns from his trip through the air.
Don Quichotte relieved of his foolish ideas comes back to his native village.
He dies in the midst of his family.
Imagerie d'Epinal. — Pellerin, imp.-édit.
"Printed expressly for the Humoristic Publishing Co, Kansas City, Mo."