A central collage on an orange background. It features a student in the foreground holding a silver digital camera up to their eye, as if taking a picture. Behind the student are several historical educational cards and documents. One card is pink with a diagram of a mechanical device and the year '1908'. Another is light green with text and a red stamp, dated '1903'. A third is yellow with a diagram of a machine and the year '1903'. The overall theme is the integration of historical educational resources into a modern program.
